Cumulative Performance

FE fundinfo net of fees to 30.09.26. Investors should note that fees and expenses are charged to the capital of the Fund. This reduces the return on your investment by an amount equivalent to the Ongoing Charges Figure (OCF). The current OCF is 0.97%. Returns for share classes with a different OCF will vary accordingly. Transaction costs also apply and are incurred when a fund buys or sells holdings. The performance returns do not reflect any initial charge; any such charge will also reduce the return.

Fund Profile

Investment Objective

The investment objective is to provide capital appreciation over the long term. Returns will be generated through both capital growth and income, with a bias towards developed and liquid capital markets. The risk will be diversified by holding collective investments in a range of asset classes and geographies. The management of the portfolio aims to meet the objective conservatively by taking managed risk through fund selection and asset allocation. The portfolio is based on the Brewin Dolphin International MPS Passive Plus Growth Strategy.

Investment Policy

The Fund is actively managed without reference to a benchmark. The Fund invests in funds in a range of different asset classes.

If you decide to invest, you will be buying units/shares in the Fund and will not be investing directly in the underlying assets of the Fund.

Market Commentary

The third quarter was characterised by a challenging combination of geopolitical tensions, higher energy prices, persistent inflation and tighter monetary policy. The escalation of conflict in the Middle East pushed Brent crude back above $100 a barrel and European gas above €70/MWh. Despite these headwinds, the global economy remained surprisingly resilient. US and eurozone PMI (Purchasing Managers' Index) surveys strengthened significantly, while robust business investment, AI-related capital expenditure, healthier labour markets and robust consumer spending supported activity.

This resilience, together with strong corporate earnings, enabled global equities to advance and reach several record highs. The S&P 500 ended the quarter, with valuations broadly in line with its long-term average, led by energy, technology and hyperscaler strength.

Japan was the strongest developed market, supported by earnings growth, share buybacks and corporate-governance reforms. Emerging markets struggled after their strong first-half performance particularly in Korea and Taiwan, where semiconductor stocks corrected. Europe lagged, reflecting weaker earnings momentum and greater sensitivity to rising rates, despite resilient economic growth. UK equities benefited from their exposure to energy, commodities and financials.

Fixed income markets faced pressure as rising energy prices and inflation expectations encouraged central banks to tighten policy, while heavy government issuance and substantial borrowing by US hyperscalers to fund AI investment increased competition for capital. Investment-grade credit produced negative returns as yields rose, although spreads remained relatively contained.

Commodities were among the strongest performers, with the Bloomberg Commodity Index rising 16%, driven principally by energy and renewed Middle East supply concerns. Agriculture also benefited from weather and geopolitical risks.

Overall, the quarter demonstrated the ability of resilient economic growth and corporate earnings to withstand significant macroeconomic and geopolitical pressures. The AI investment cycle remains a powerful source of growth, although its benefits are unevenly distributed. While equities are expected to outperform fixed income; inflation, fiscal pressures and refinancing risks are likely to create greater dispersion, implying active management and diversification remain important. Government bonds provide potential protection in an AI-led downturn whilst alternatives offer a hedge against inflation shocks.
